Greetings,

Farmers are being crushed by CT's electric rates, which are the highest in our country. I put in a 104K of solar this year and I'm still faced with a bill from Eversource.

Energy should be a public utility, not a way of a monopoly to extort the public and line the pockets of shareholders. Each year Eversource collects record breaking profits.

They need to be controlled by our state government. Or better yet, if they won't yield, seize the infrastructure and make our energy system a truly publicly run utility. The towns of Groton and Norwich do this beautifully, and they have reliable, affordable energy.

Please do something. Historically, other than farm labor, electricity has been my largest single farm expense. You are breaking the backs of farmers by not enacting your power as a regulatory authority.

My name is Baylee Drown and I live at 256 Beaver Brook Road in Lyme, CT.

Baylee
