Dear Public Utilities Regulatory Authority:

I am submitting this comment in opposition to the proposed rate increase in Docket No. 26-05-10.

Eversource is requesting roughly a $727 million annual increase that would raise the typical residential bill by about $33 per month (an 18% overall increase, or about 50% on the delivery portion). This comes after several years of high inflation that has already raised the cost of living substantially for Connecticut households.

Before asking Connecticut customers to absorb another large rate hike on top of recent inflation, Eversource should demonstrate meaningful cost discipline at the executive level. A substantial reduction in CEO and other senior executive compensation, particularly the large equity awards and incentive payments would free up resources that could help offset the proposed increase or be directed toward the infrastructure and reliability investments the company cites as justification.

I urge PURA to carefully scrutinize executive compensation in this rate case and to require that any approved increase be paired with clear accountability and cost reductions from the top of the company.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Sincerely,
Bernardo Casano
