Exhibit C-2

Exhibit C-2 addresses the requirement to provide a sample notice to aggregated customers under §16-245-3(d) of the Regulations of Connecticut State Agencies.

M&L Service Providers LLC acts as a broker, not as an aggregator. Accordingly, the notice requirement is not applicable to M&L's ordinary broker activities because all relevant customer information is addressed in the agreement between the customer and the supplier.

Response to EOE-10: Although M&L does not aggregate customers, M&L is applying for an aggregating license and has therefore provided the requested sample notice. The notice is filed separately as the response attachment to this request.

Exhibit C-3

Reference Application Exhibit B-4, "Electric Aggregation Program." How does M&L service Providers LLC intend to provide its aggregated customers with the Company's address, toll-free telephone number and all other customer service-related information:

Response to EOE-11: Although M&L does not currently aggregate customers, M&L is applying for an aggregating license and has therefore provided the requested sample notice. M&L's email address and telephone number will be provided to aggregated customers in the notice. The notice is filed separately as the response attachment to this request.

Additionally, for customers brokered through M&L, all correspondence is conducted by email, and each email signature includes the sender's name, telephone number, and website information.
