Question:

Program Administrator Order No. 20 Compliance Filing, July 29, 2026, Att. 2, p. 38. If dual enrollment in the ESS Program and managed charging program is not permitted for EVs, should the make-ready program's 24-month managed charging enrollment requirement be waived for customers who exit the managed charging program solely to enroll in the ESS Program? If not, explain why.

Response:

Considering the nascent stage of V2G development and the lack of vendor offerings that couple V2G participation with managed charging, to preserve customer choice, Eversource believes it would be acceptable to allow residential customers to unenroll from Managed Charging in this scenario to enroll in an ESS Program V2G offer. Eversource also anticipates this may not be a common scenario as it will depend upon there being overlap between the Managed Charging qualified product list and the V2G Qualified Product list and would also depend on the customer meeting the make-ready requirements, including income eligibility or living in a High Poverty, Low Opportunity area.
