Exhibit A-11

Violation of Consumer Protection Law

Metergy has not been fined or sanctioned for consumer protection violations. It is involved in an administrative licensing inquiry before the Maryland Office of Financial Regulation (OFR) following guidance that utility submetering providers must obtain a Maryland collection agency license. The inquiry began in September 2025. The matter concerns administrative licensing compliance and does not involve allegations of consumer harm, fraud, misconduct, or consumer protection violations. OFR issued an administrative subpoena seeking information about Metergy's Maryland collection activities. Metergy has submitted its licensing materials and fully responded to the subpoena. OFR has advised that it expects to conclude the matter in fall 2026.
