Question:

(Company Vehicles) Please provide an unlocked Excel file listing for years 2023, 2024, and 2025: each Company vehicle assigned to a specific employee (i.e., the year, make, and model of the vehicle); the employee to which it was assigned; that employee's job title/position; if the employee is union or non-union; and if the employee was permitted to drive the vehicle home and/or use the vehicle outside of work hours. For any employee noted as permitting to drive the vehicle home and/or outside of work hours, please explain why the Company determined such permission was necessary.

Response:

Company vehicles are not typically assigned to individual employees. Some vehicles are assigned to executives of the Company, for take home-use. Please refer to OCC-754, Attachment 1, for a list of these vehicles.

The Company does not generally allow the use of Company fleet vehicles outside of work hours, except for certain employees that are then assigned a specific vehicle. Vehicle assignments to employees that are not regularly assigned to a specific vehicle are relatively rare and are only approved based on operational needs and certain business criteria, by a supervisor at the work center level.

During a work shift, vehicle assignments are made to specific employees for the following:

- Direct supervision of field or craft employees;
- Frequent on-call or emergency response responsibilities;
- Regular direct reporting to field locations or job sites;
- Transportation of tools, equipment, or materials necessary to perform assigned duties; and
- Other operational requirements approved through the Company's vehicle authorization process.

Employees that are assigned field vehicles include the following:

Field Operations Supervisors all groups may be assigned Company vehicles and authorized to retain those vehicles outside normal working hours due to their responsibility for overseeing field operations and responding to operational issues and emergencies. These employees are not permitted to use Company vehicles for personal errands in vehicle, except to enable more rapid response time when on call.

- Overhead and Underground Crews, Response Specialists Electricians – No vehicles are allowed to be taken home except on a case-by-case basis. Typically a "case-by-case" approval is granted only allowed when linemen/splicers are on call and during a blizzard type event where they are unsure of their ability to physically get to work when needed.

- Response Specialists Lineworkers – No vehicles are allowed for take-home trips during normal blue sky days. During storm response, RSOs may be allowed to take their small bucket truck home to be available to work right away. Normally, the RSOs are solo in a truck.

- Test Department – Test employees are assigned to Company vehicles when on call for a more rapid response time.

- Work Center Electricians – Work Center Electricians are allowed to take vehicles home when on call.
